RTH VII Summary Notes

Well lads, another splendid outing into history. The 2004 event had a great number of outstanding moments that will be cherished for years to come. To help you recall, the following are a few highlights:

- Our first Found Hound, who turned up through the morning Fundy mist beckoned by the sweet sound of Super Dog's pipes. His adventurous spirit captured the essence of the 'Gathering of the Hounds'
- The Parade, lead by Scottie Dog waving the Glenfiddich flag. ("No bumping, I didn't give you permission and I don't know you") What was going through the minds of the couples in the RV's that were forced off the road at the Park Headquarters, when the encountered the sword wielding, scotch drinking, howling Scotsmen racing down the hill on golf carts.
- The awards ceremony included spontaneous singing which we hope to feature as a fixture in next years pillage. Snoop Dog and Shaggy have been tasked with this file. Typically there a major surprise for the coveted awards, Moon Dog or Stray Dog? - L.D. Front and Dingo L.D. Back beating out our normal heavy hitters. Scottie most improved low-net - well done, and congratulations to Bull Dog for the break through year as and our 2004 Glenfiddich Cup Champion.
- Hounds love their food and it was plentiful and mouth watering. The lunch by House Dog (who missed this years event) hit the spot at the turn. The banquet put on by the MacIntyre Brothers was out standing and in the words of Mad Dog "the food at Bad Dog's Place on Saturday night was worthy of a top class restaurant." Electric Dog was over heard to say "Jorgensen Electric could sponsor a breakfast buffet next year. More Food!
- Mad Dog put on a magnificent scotch tasting. He managed to fit the Fundy Gig into his travels between Bagdad and Kazakhstan. The tasting was a deafening silence compared to the shouting and howling during the rest of the night except for "awh! could I have another please?"
- The fireworks sponsored by Timberparts (who also missed this years event) were put off and put off because of wind, although at 2am, I believe there was a feeble display fo store bought candles. The fireworks are stored safely and will be combined with next years pyro for an outstanding display.
- Finally we launched the website and signed the Export 'A' Lassie for a multi year contract to model the boutique collection.
